Dear George:

Mention has been made during several of the suppliers meetings of the need to secure passport data, inoculations, and to complete such other steps as may be necessary for those persons who are to engage in overseas work.

Sometime ago I indicated to Dick and to Walt that we would probably plan on sending four engineers overseas to supervise installation and initial testing of System No. 2 ground-based and airborne equipment. The persons selected would probably find it necessary to leave for their assignments prior to the end of March 1956. Thus far, we have received no instructions concerning the preparations to be made by us or by the persons involved, and accordingly, I would appreciate receiving instructions from you as to what steps should be taken to get this portion of the show on the road.

Sincerely,

Burt
